Fatal Fight Between Husband and Wife.

Thursday.

Beverly, Mass, Aug. 3.—President Taft sat on the broad veranda of his summer cottage this afternoon overlooking Salem bay and the open waters of the ocean lying beyond the rocks of Marbiehead. The little dancing waves broke and sparkled in the brilliant sunlight and off the Marbiehead shore scores of small yachts had spread their white sails to the breeze. It is Marbiehead race week and in addition to the daily regatats the bay is dotted with tiny little Sonder class yachts that are in preparation for the race for he German emperor's cop. It was an inviting day on the water and Mr. Taft was asked if he were interested in yachting. The question brought a reminiscent smile and he declared he had once been an enthusiast but had lost interest after a very bitter experience as a Sailor.

Allenists for State.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Harry K. Thaw, resting in the jail here after the long ordeal of his sanity hearing, and awaiting Justice Milis promined decision on Thursday, today gave out a statement regarding some of the points touched upon by the aliensets for the state during the proceedings. The "Longfellow" were mainly dwelt upon in the statement, Thaw contending that these letters of his to an old friend and lawyer, though carelessly written, were far from being lacking in sense and intelligence. Thaw declared that Dr. Flint could have found no delusions in them, for it had been plainly shown that they contained none. "Mr. Jerome," Thaw remarks, "apparently wanted no light upon these letters, for he asked none of our allenists or me for any explanation."

Mr. Williard essayed to make a circle about a mile and a half in circumference, but was not able to complete the circle, owing to the elevation of unexpected ground, trees or cornfields.

He made five long curved flights, however, at high speed. In one flight he had an interesting race with an automobile. Going at the rate of forty miles an hour, the motor cut straight across the circle, while Mr. Williard in the aeroplane followed the arc of the circle. The aeroplane reached the landing place first.

Streets Present Livelier Aspect Than Any Time Since Strike Began-Idle Workmen Dissatisfied With Leaders

Stockholm Aug. 9.-The streets of Stockholm, Aug. 3.—The streets of Stockholm today presented a liveller aspect than on any day since the general strike began. Many carts and street cars were plying their trade through the street of the capital despite the threats of the strikers that they would stop all traffic.

Hundreds of thousands sought Coney Island and the beaches for relief, but by an irony of nature it was 95 degrees at Coney Island when it was 93 in New York. Brutal Crime At Rochester

17 YEAR OLD GIRL CRIMINALLY ASSAULTED, BEATEN TO DEATH.

Evident That Victim Had Made Des perate Struggle to Save Her Honor and Life-Police Working on Clue

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 9.—That Anna Schumacher, the 17 year old girl whose body was found this morning crudely buried in Holy Sepulcher cemetery, was choked and beaten to death after being criminally assaulted, is the conclusion based on the autopsy held this afternoon by Coroner Henry Kleinedienst, but many of the circumstances of the crime, even to the exact place where it was committed, can still be only guessed at.

The strange actions of a man discovered at the scene of the murder by an employe of the cemetery late this afternoon directed suspicion toward him, and for a time gave promise that an arrest would be made, but the man made his escape, and his identity is not known.

toward an employe of St. Bernard's seminary, which is near the cemetery, but later it was learned that this man had been ill at his home for several days. The police declared tonight that they had come into possession of a new clue, which indicated that the guilty person is still in this city.

The broken spade which is relied on to give some indication of the murderer, was found near the lonely spot where the victim's body was hidden. The shovel was taken from a shed at St. Bernard's seminary, and

den. The shovel was taken from a shed at St. Bernard's seminary, and its use gives plausibility to the belief that the murderer was not unfamiliar with the locality. Having secured the spade, he must have dragged the body into the shrubbery and with such care as was possible in the darkness, dug a shalow grave, into which he later placed the corpse, covering it with cart hand leaves. This ering it with eart hand leaves. This work must have consumed considerable time.

Body in Pitiable Condition.

The autopsy emphasizes the bru-tality of the crime. The body was in a pitlable condition—head, face, chest, arms and hands were covered with bruises and scratches, the bone supports the tongue, the hyoid, fractured in the choking, and the hair was full of dirt and leaves, indicating that the body was dragged some distance, probably by the feet. Part of the clothing had been removed. It would seem that the girl, who was of vigorous physique, made a desperate struggle to save her honor and her

A search was instituted, which was kept up nearly all of Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night, until the finding of the body today by two police officers. Their search led them about a hundred feet outside of the about a hundred feet outside of the cemetery limits and they were attracted to the grave by the freshly disturbed earth and a piece of white cloth protruding from it.

The spot where the body was found was well chosen for concealment. It is back of an old ice house and is surrounded by wild undergrowth and trees. The murderer probably believed that the crime would not be discovered for some time, if at all.
